

Client Partnerships in the CEO/Executive Director Role

Our mission at KEES is to build transformative teams and leaders in the nonprofit and public sectors. Nonprofits and public sector entities provide critical services that strengthen society. To do so, they require strong leadership teams and a solid organizational infrastructure. Our work helps ensure that missions are fulfilled, visions are achieved, and our clients are able to do what they do best...go out and change the world.

Because we know the importance of leadership and staffing, each of our consultants has served as a nonprofit staff leader, board member and/or key volunteer. This experience, coupled with extensive training and years of consulting, gives our team the expertise and strategic ability to deliver our services to all segments of the nonprofit sector, including community-based service agencies, human serving enterprises, associations, foundations, health care entities, arts/culture organizations, education institutions, and senior living/aging communities.

Approximately half of our client partnerships focus specifically on identifying senior-level leadership for CEO, Executive Director, Managing Director, and President roles. Some of these past and current clients include:
